Notebook Writing: Honorary Family Member

Task:

Write a definition or descriptive argument on the topic of honorary family members. Follow one of the two prompts below:

- Definition: What, to you, counts as an honorary family member? What must a non-relative do in order to count as a member of your family?
- Description: Who is someone besides your significant other or best friend that you consider an honorary family member? How did this person earn that title, and what role do they have in your life today?

Process:

Choose one of the two prompts above. Then identify the line of reasoning you will develop to prove your claim. Your first sentence should introduce a definition or the person being described in a clear claim. The body of the piece should develop your line of reasoning with description, imagery, examples, a brief narrative, etc. The closing sentence should tie the reasoning back to the claim.
