

The Good, the Bad and the Gold

By THE EDITORIAL BOARD

http://www.nytimes.com/2016/08/19/opinion/the-good-the-bad-and-the-gold.html?\_r=0

This article is about how some athletes handle their fame differently. One example of an athlete handling their fame nicely is “The story of the two runners in a 5,000-meter heat, Abbey D’Agostino of the United States and Nikki Hamblin of New Zealand, helping each other to the finish line after they suffered a nasty tumble has become the sportsmanship moment of the Rio Olympics.” Another example is an athlete handling their fame poorly. “The latest being the news that Ryan Lochte and other American swimmers may have made false claims to police investigators. The suspension of several boxing judges and referees. The poor loser Hope Solo, an Egyptian judoka refusing to shake hands with an Israeli.” I thought the author did really good writing this article clearly.