Lane County Principals:

Summer Agriculture Institute (SAI) is a weeklong graduate level course for K-12 educators with little or no agricultural background, offered through Oregon State University. An ideal opportunity for teachers who are working to earn their Master's degree.

There are two scholarships for Session #1(Corvallis) available for Lane County teachers to receive 3 graduate level credits from OSU; high quality, accredited collateral materials provided; first-hand experience interacting with agriculture through tours of processing plants, farms, nurseries and agribusiness operations; opportunities to meet and work with agriculturists; hotel accommodations, and meals included. Please contact program coordinators listed on information sheets attached for further details.

A program Fact Sheet and Application form is attached. Check out the activities and what teachers have to say about their SAI experience on YouTube.
