Allan, I am forwarding this to multiple folks as it is important info and I am sure others have the same question.

Seesaw will auto populate whatever is in Synergy via Clever. So if a homeroom class is split into two cohort classes then the teacher will see the two new classes once the new class are live in Synergy and the synch happens. The old class should still be visible for the student and the teacher (fingers crossed) until it is archived. Students and staff will just need to toggle between classes in the the upper left hand corner by clicking on their name in Seesaw. All staff created classes that were either created manually by adding individual students or that were uploaded with a CSV file will remain unchanged by the creation of new classes in Synergy.

This will also cause staff to have two Clever sections for each cohort group. However you can share a clever page with students in multiple sections. Many of our specialist do this already. As far as how this will affect student logins in the various clever apps, we do not exactly know the full extent of the ramifications of what a midyear change like this will do to student progress in each and every app being used (especially if they are not district purchased and supported.)

Hi Justin,

Do you know if Seesaw will auto populate new cohort classes from Synergy and will old classes be archived?

Thanks,

Allan
