

---

Re: [holt_staf] Yellow Day is Coming!

---

From : Kim McManus <mcmanus_k@4j.lane.edu> Wed, May 05, 2021 08:01 PM
Sender : holt_staf <holt_staf-bounces@4j.lane.edu>
Subject : Re: [holt_staf] Yellow Day is Coming!
To : Jacque Barton <barton_j@4j.lane.edu>
Cc : staf Holt <holt_staf@4j.lane.edu>

This is really an incredible idea! Activities like these are gentle reminders to those little brains that kindness counts. Between the chalk activity and Yellow Day, we are really reinforcing being kind. These type of activities make Holt a special place:)

We can bring out "yellow" chalk on the playground and encourage kiddos to write nice notes to different grade levels.

---

From: "Jacque Barton" <barton_j@4j.lane.edu>
To: "staf Holt" <holt_staf@4j.lane.edu>
Sent: Wednesday, May 5, 2021 6:00:54 PM
Subject: [holt_staf] Yellow Day is Coming!

Hello all!

So Sunday is not only Mother's Day but also Yellow Day! So since I know we all have just a few things going on, I wanted to keep things super simple. The whole idea with Yellow Day is spreading and showing kindness and being kind. So I thought it would be really nice to make our own yellow garden for everyone to see and enjoy. So tomorrow I will leave a master of flower petals so the kids can make yellow flowers (see attached picture). Then I was hoping people could put them up in their windows so as kids and families pass by they will see the wonderful yellow flowers and hopefully will brighten their day. If your window doesn't face where people will walk by, we might be able to put some in the office windows (Mel, Katie, Allan, would that be ok?)

The project shouldn't take very long to do and if you want to make it quicker you can copy the petals onto the yellow paper I will put in the work room as well.

I'm hoping this can be done Monday/Thursday with each cohort. I have a copy of Gigi's Yellow Garden for anyone who would like a copy to keep. My hope is you can read the book and then do the craft. Then everyone can wear yellow on Tues/Friday; I have stickers for every teacher to send home with kids for them to remember.

I don't want to add anymore to your plates so I'm hoping this will be easy enough for everyone to do. Reach out if you have questions.

I hope this will brighten not only the kids' and families' days but yours as well! #bethyellow

Jacque Barton
First Grade Teacher | Holt Elementary School
Eugene School District 4J
barton\_j@4j.lane.edu | (541) 357-7715 - Google voice for text or call
Mrs. Barton's Website

