Happy Friday Team,

We have a few more administrative changes to share before we head into the long weekend.

Dr. Brooke Wagner has been named Assistant Superintendent of Administrative Services. Brooke brings decades of experience as an education leader with a broad and deep background working across all school levels, and as a classified, licensed, and administrative staff member. She previously served our district in this role during the 2021–22 school year, and has also served as human resources director, assistant superintendent of instruction, director of elementary education and preK–8 education. She has been a middle and elementary school principal in Eugene and Springfield, and worked in three of the four school regions in our district. Brooke was named Oregon’s Assistant Principal of the Year in 2006 and Springfield Public Schools Administrator of the Year in 2015. She prioritizes building and maintaining relationships and creating a foundation of trust, transparency and approachability. Her enthusiasm, experience, leadership, and essential skills and qualities will continue to be invaluable to the district in the administrative services realm.

Hillary Johnson will serve as Interim Communications Director. Hillary joined 4J as a communications specialist in 2017 and was promoted to communications coordinator in 2019. She has experience in every aspect of school communications and many of you have already had the opportunity to collaborate with her. As interim communications director, Hillary will work closely with the 4J leadership team to address some of our most pressing communication needs and bridge the gap until a new director is hired. We greatly appreciate her willingness to step up.

In addition to posting the Human Resources Director and Communications Director openings, we are soon posting for an Assistant Superintendent of Equity, Inclusion, and Belonging; and a School Safety and Risk Administrator.

Please join me in congratulating Brooke and Hillary on their new positions!
