

Room 12 News

October 24, 2014

In Class:

- *No spelling list for this week!
- *I have included a list of the "key vocabulary" and another of "sight words" from our first reading theme. If it seems helpful to your child, you can review them--reading and discussing the definitions.
- * You will also find an invitation from "Chef" Ray--our amazing school cook.
- *The parent-teacher conference times are short, but I find them to be very valuable in understanding your child and his or her unique talents and needs. I will go over a brief summary of the assessments we have done so far, and of my classroom observations. Please come ready to ask questions or to voice concerns so that we can work together to set some meaningful goals for your child in second grade. The students do not participate in the conference itself, but I certainly want to know if they have any questions or ideas that you can share with me. If you need to bring your child/children with you, I will have books and legos in the hallway for them.
